

KEEPING BRITAIN TRADING

THROUGH BREXIT

A map of the United Kingdom is overlaid on the text 'THROUGH BREXIT'. The map shows the outline of the country with several red and blue dots scattered across it, representing port locations. The red dots are primarily in the south and east, while blue dots are more numerous in the north and west.

KEEPING BRITAIN TRADING

ABP is the UK's largest port operator with 21 ports around Britain handling around one quarter of the nation's seaborne trade.

Our mission

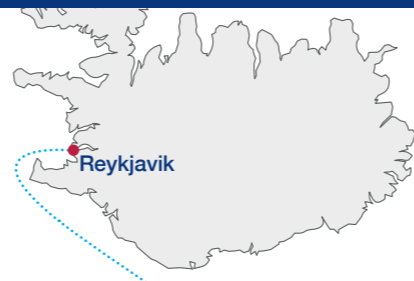

Our mission is Keeping Britain Trading. We're committed to fulfilling that mission through Brexit, offering customers the solutions they need to keep their cargo moving.

Our offer

Our ports offer multiple regular connections to mainland Europe and have the capacity to handle your cargo using state-of-the-art equipment, as well as offering an array of open and covered storage solutions.

In particular, ABP can help your business avoid the risk of potential disruption at Dover as a consequence of Brexit.

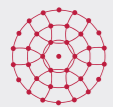

ABP has established strong working relationships with ports across Europe to make sure trade can continue to flow and grow through Brexit.

We have connected solutions to keep your cargo moving.

THE ABP SOLUTION

Connections

ABP's Humber ports offer over 70 regular sailings per week to and from mainland Europe, connecting Belgium and the Netherlands, as well as further sailings connecting a wide range of other destinations across Europe from Northern Spain to Scandinavia.

Our ports also benefit from excellent road and rail connections, offering quick and efficient access to UK markets.

Capacity

Our ports offer some 29 berths currently handling or capable of handling Ro-Ro vessels.

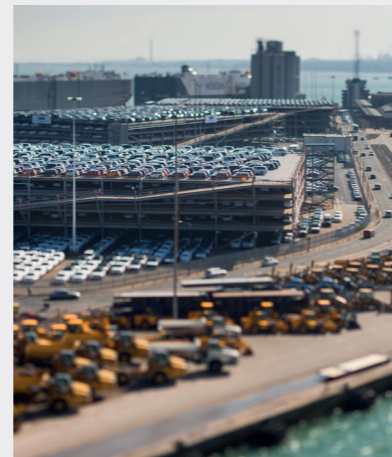

£50 million of investment means our container terminals in Hull and Immingham are capable of handling around 500,000 containers.

Hull and Immingham already handle over 11 million tonnes of Ro-Ro traffic every year; there is the capacity available to handle much more.

Storage

Up to 960 hectares of open storage and 1.4 million sq m of covered storage across our ports is available now.
